THE UNGRATEFUL WOLF AND THE CRANE

One day, a wolf found a bull's meat in the forest. Out of greed, he ate quickly, and a bone got stuck in his throat. He could not breathe and was choking. Suddenly, he remembered that a crane lived nearby. He went to the crane, begged for help, and promised a reward. The kind-hearted crane agreed to help. The wolf opened his mouth wide, and the crane used its long beak to remove the bone. Later, the crane reminded the wolf about the promised reward. The wolf laughed and said, "Reward? When your beak was inside my mouth, I could have easily killed you. Be thankful I let you live." The crane was shocked at his selfishness, and before he could react, the ungrateful wolf ran away.

The Old Carpenter and the Forest Spirit

Once upon a time, an old carpenter lived near a big forest. Every day, he would go into the forest to cut wood and build small furniture. One morning, while chopping a tree, he heard a soft voice. Turning around, he saw a glowing forest spirit standing among the trees. The spirit said, "Please don't cut this tree. It gives shade and shelter to many animals." The carpenter was surprised but kind. He replied, "I did not know that. I will not cut it." The forest spirit smiled and said, "Thank you for your kindness. In return, I will bless your hands. Whatever you make from now on will be perfect and strong." From that day, the carpenter built the best furniture in the village. # The Clever Owl and the Goose

A long time ago, a goose lived near a lake. One day, an owl came and started living nearby. Both became good friends and lived happily together.

When summer came, the owl thought of going back to his home as the lake might dry up. He asked the goose to come along, but the goose replied, "If the lake dries up, I'll come to you."

Later, the lake dried up. So, the goose flew to the owl's tree and rested under it. The goose often slept early.

One day, some travelers passed by and sat under the same tree to rest. When the owl saw them, he shouted loudly. The travelers believed it was a bad omen. One of them shot an arrow at the owl. But since the owl sees better in the dark, he avoided it.

Sadly, the arrow hit the sleeping goose instead.
